

James Guerra

Web, Mobile, Software Developer

Profile

Passionate about technology, in particular web app, mobile app and software development. I have three months of industry level experience via Reesby Recruitment's Internship Program, where I focused on using ReactJS and Material UI for the front end.

Most of my programming experience has been achieved through self-learning, university and online courses. I currently have a moderate skill set, which can be seen on my GitHub here. I believe I am job-ready with a dedicated mindset, great work ethic and more than ready to apply my skills in the workforce.
